Making Connections That Move People

What can the “Nice Bike” principle do for you and your educators?

MARK SCHARENBRICH’S “Nice Bike” principle connects people to people, administration to faculty, team member to team member, educator to student, and student to student.

Mark’s motivational message tells the story of “Nice Bike” (which involves half-a-million Harley-Davidson bikers, lots of black leather jackets, one beige rental car, and the sincere recognition of what’s really important) to bring home the value of acknowledging, honoring and making connections that move people.

Influenced by Dr. Willard Daggett’s “Three Rs” application model of Rigor, Relevancy and Relationships, Mark helps educators with both inspiring messages and solid methods in the relationship aspect of Daggett’s model. Your educators will leave the presentation with relevant tools that can immediately impact student achievement.

Mark is the expert in the field of school climate and improved school culture. He has personally toured more than 3000+ schools and he shares solid ideas and best practices that will impact your school, your educators and your students.

Part motivational speaker, part thought provoker and pure entertainer, Mark Scharenbroich makes any event memorable through engaging stories—and he makes it fun. He weaves in an ensemble cast of unforgettable characters, à la Las Vegas headliners.

Mark’s new book, Nice Bike: Making Meaningful Connections on the Road of Life continues to receive rave reviews worldwide. With experience in front of 3,500 audiences, his credentials include an Emmy award, induction into the National Speakers Association’s Hall of Fame, and several international film awards for writing and performing including a Golden Apple, Silver Screen, Telly and Remi award.

“You delivered a program worth a million bucks!”
